"You have here in your city a cannon, I believe, that was presented to you as a trophy of the war. It was the custom in earlier days for cannons to bear motious and your cannon has inscribed upon it "Mars Ultima Ratio Regium," which means that war is the last reason of kings.

"Charles Sumner, in his oration on the true character of nations, delivered at Boston July 4, 1844, referred to this motio and said: "Let it be no reason of this republic."

and said: 'Let it be no reason of this republic.'

"I nope that you will not merely from the possession of that cannon be led to believe that war is a thing to be desired. It ought to be further away from a republic even than from a monarchy, because in a monarchy the government rests upon force and has frequent occasion to resort to force.

"A king is not aways restrained by those considerations which would restrain the people of a republic. In a cointry like this, where the Government rests upon the consent of the governed, and where justice is the rule between this Government and other governments as well as between the people, there ought to be less necessity for war.

mation should Not Steal.

"In fact, I believe that if this nation will stand upon its rights and be as careful to respect the rights of other people as it is to defend its own there will be little use of war.

"If this nation will obey the commandment in those places when the steal that commandment in those places when the protector, and so we believe in the far-away Philippines that this nation is a protector, and so we believe in the far-away Philippines that this nation can be a protector, and so we believe in the far-away Philippines that this nation can be a protector, and so we believe in the far-away Philippines that this nation can be a protector as it has been in the South American republies, and without governing the people ourselves."

"Richard Croker denied at the Hoffman House to-day the story that Vice-Chairman Stone, of the Democratic National Committee, had received $60,000 from him as campaign funds from Tammany Hall. "The story is not true," he said, "We land time raising money, and are taking small subscriptions wherever we can get them and from any one who will need to carry on the campaign right here in New York City."

Mr. Croker was then asked where the victim of the protector, and so we believe in the far-away Philippines that the sum for this had been in the South American republies, and without governing the people ourselves."

ence of the individual coal operators and the general mining superintendents of the coal-carrying roads is in session this afternoon behind closed doors. It is attended by all the representative mining interests of the Wyoming and Lackawanna valleys. One of the superintendents said the meeting would continue all the afteroon, but he was not aware that any definite action would result. He thought some word would come to them from New York which would direct the course to be followed.

The statement was made this afternoon by a prominent officer in one of the big mining companies in this city that the strike will practically be settled within a few days, when most of the coal-carrying railroads which control most of the mines would agree to guarantee that the 16 per cent. Increase of wages shall be kept in effect until April 1 per 1 next Independent operators will doubtless
